WHITNEY WARNS HIS PART

Free Silver Platform Would Bring Them Dire Defeat,

HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Beiterates His Statement and Say-Has Been-Attached to His Decision to Attend the Convention, He Says

New York, June 21.- William C. Whitney has sent the following to the press: "I find it necessary to make a public statement embodying my views of the situation, to correct misconceptions, and to save the time now occupied in answering stions. Far too great importance has been attached to my decision to go to the Chicago convention.

"I have been practically out of politics for four years, and ther eare now many Eastern Democrats who can do much more Eastern Democrats who can do much more than I can for the party. I shall not assume any position of leadership. My decision to stay was simply based on the duty of every person who believes in the party for its principles to stand by and lead his aid and take his chances when a great crisis is more it.

There can be no question but that a great crists is upon the Democratic party. Fundamental differences of prin-ciple exist inside the party, marked almost by sectional lines. by sectional lines.

The great question to my mind is "The great question to my mind is whether the party meets in convention now as in 1800, with issues and differences that are for the moment irreconcilable. For the past fitteen years leaders of public opinion in the South and West have been advocating as the great remedy for existing ills the free colnage of silver at 16 to 1, with or without the co-operation of other muttons. of other pations.

OUR PEOPLE DISAGREE.

"It has come to be believed in there quite generally and conscientiously. A large majority of the delegates to the Democratic convention have been elected by the people for the purpose of incorporating that doctrine into the plat-form of the Democratic party. Our people, on the other hand, entirely disagree with these views, and believe aimest universally that it will bring general rain to the busi-ness and presperity of the country. "It is deemed a new dectrine when proposed to be incorporated into the platform posed to be incorporated into the partial of the national Democracy. It is true that in no previous platform of the party can it specifically be found. Consequently no party obligations heretofore assumed oblige them to subscribe to it.

oblige them to subscribe to it.

"Under these circumstances if the results of the Democratic convention should be to establish as the issue of this campaign the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independent of other nations, in the intensity of feeling likely to arise it is to be seriously apprehended that a disruption of the Democrate party might occur. Certainly no substantial following could be secured for the Costrine among castern Democrats. They might not vote the Republican ticket for other reasons, believing that the Republican party stands for other issues that are decimental to the country, but the Democratic of the Costrine and the Costrine issues that are deximental to the country, but the Demo-crats in the east would not, in my opinion,

OBJECT OF FREE COINAGE.

"The movement for free collarge purports to have for its object the establishment and mainfenance of gold and silver as the money of the country, upon equal terms with each other, and at a parity of purchasing power. If by the proposed measure that object could be secured, there would be no substantial disagreement in the party. Every national Demo-cratic platform that has heretofore spoken upon the subject has declared for both gold and silver money. It is our traditional policy. But the maintenance of the double standard at the present time is not a question of desire; it is a question of ability. The commercial value of silver has declined greatly in the markets of

Whatever the causes are and whoever is to blame, the fact is that silver has declined, and free coinage now at 16 to 1 s the same as our offering for all the silver in the world about twice what it is selling for in the market. International exchanges have to be paid in gold. And it would seem plain that if we, under these conditions, open our mints to the free coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of comparative value which is largely at variance with the com-mercial value of the two metals, we must take the entire silver surplus ourselves d alone maintain its parity with gold, else we shall go to a silver basis. France, in 1873, close ther mints against silver and abandoned the experiment, deeming herself unequal to the task alone, and at that time it was much less difficult, for silver was then at par with gold at the ratio in use, and even England's mints in India were open to the free coinage of silver If the experiment of maintaining the parity of the two metals at a comage standard was difficult then, it would seem to be positively hopeless now, without international agreement.

BELIEVE IN A DOUBLE STANDARD. "Germany, France, Belgium, Italy and Austria believe in a double standard and desire to establish it, but no one, two or three of them deem themselves able to three of them deem themserves able to maintain the double standard, even with the co-operation of the United States. If the result of the measures proposed would be to carry us to a silver basis, it is not felt here that such a proposal would be in line with the principles of the Demo-ocratic party. It is not the joint standard with the purchasing power of the dollars at parity with each other, but it is changing from one standard to another and that change being to a depreciated coin.

"And it is also felt, aside from any Democratic principle to sustain it, that you cannot have such a disturbance of values a month come from charging from a gold would come from charging from a gold as would come from case and a shock to confidence; the hoarding of gold and con-traction of your available circulating medium, as would bring, in the opinion of our people, the worst panic and distress have ever seen in this country. The creditor classes are prepared for it. The obligations, mortgages, railroad and otherwise, are quite generally payable in gold. Debts would still have to be paid in gold, but wages in silver. The sufferers, as usual, being the poorer classes.

"This movement purporting to be in the interest of the joint standard, comes at a inopportune time, is my opinion. ere has never been a time when the prospects of international action favorable to the joint standard were at all as promis ing as at the present moment. But au ill-advised unsuccessful attempt here would discredit the cause the world over. What is the situation as regards this?

IS NOT THE SOLUTION. "From the discussion of the last twenty years, it has come to pass, that among the persons in Europe, who are trained, recognized scientists upon monetary and eco questions, scarcely one is not at the pre-ent moment advocating the desirabilit of the joint standard, as the real solution of the monetary difficulties of the world

This includes every professor engaged in teaching or lecturing on these subjects in the universities of Great Britain.

"They are agreed upon the desirability of it, and that it is entirely practicable, if established, and maintained by agree-

ENGINEER DEAD AT HIS POST Fireman Stopped the Train Before It

Some time ago Mr. Eustis received from America a cablegram sent by a prominent compatriot stating that a young Frenchman had been arrested by the Spaniards and was about to be shot on account of his sympathies for the revolutionists. The prisoner's brother had formerly saved the life of the sender of the dispatch, who appealed to Mr. Eustis to take whatever steps he could to save the prisoner from

Neither the foreign minister nor M. Nisand, the permanent chief of the department of political affairs, were even aware that a French citizen was on the eve of execution in Cuba, and dispatches were forwarded to Madrid and to the French consulate in Cuba without delay. Shortly afterward Mr. Eustis had the satisfaction of learning from the minister that the negotiations with the Spanish covernment had resulted in the young Berlin, June 21.—The excitement which prevailed throughout the South German states over the incident at the banquet of the Deglache Verein in Moscow upon the occasion of the czar's coronation when the president of the banquet alluded to the German princes as members of the suite of Prince Henry of Prusse, was subsiding rapidly.

It has now received a fresh impolse, however, by the bestowal of the order of the Red Eagle, by the emperor, upon the chalman whose words evoked a violent protest from Prince Ludwig, of Bavaria, who resented the president's words by indig nantly declaring that the princes alluded to were neither members of Prince Henry's suite, nor vassals of the German empire.

The Bavarian press, in commenting upon the act of the emperor in decorating the president of the banquet, interpret it as a new act of provocation on the part of Prussia, although it is a clearly customary Prussia, although it is a clearly customary action to ward an official receiving a representative of the kaiser, in which capacity Prince Heury went to Moscow. Frince Luitpold, regent of Bavaria, has sought to hush up the uproar caused by the words of the president of the banquet and the resentful speech of his son and the heir to the Bavarian throne, Prince Ludwig, but popular feeling has been too strong as was shown in the enthusiastic demonstration at the closing of the session of the Bavarian Lanntag in Monich when President von Walther thanked the royal house for watching and jealously preserving the independence of Bavaria and her guaranteed treaties.

The bernin government, in the meantime, is viewing the agitation in the South German states very quietly, and the Berlin man states very quietly, and the Bernn newspapers treat the matter lightly, as though the particularist sentiment in the south of Germany were a quantity not

The National Gazette characterizes the excitement as pearite, but however lightly the government and the press may view the agitation, it cannot be dismissed in that lashiof. The fact is that the present cutburst is due to a feeling which has long been in the air of South Germany, where the people and the princes alike have silently resented the autocratic acts and

It will be recalled that his recent trip was to the Harrison preserves, near Leesburg, the statistical returns from which varied from zero up to thirty-five of the finest fish in Virginia.

Mr. Cleveland has chosen as his companions on this outing Secretary of the Treasury Carliste and Dr. O'Reilly, with the latter of whom the President had fairly good luck on his several ducking expeditions to Quantico and Widewater.

Mr. Cleveland's plan has always consistently been to steal a march on the enemy, and hence the profound secrecy sistently been to steal a march on the cenemy, and hence the profound secrecy with which his movements on these trips have been conducted. Fighting Sergeant Burned in a Speakeasy Raid.

GREER ALSO GOT A DOSE

Laura Buckner Was Prepared and Let the Officers Have the Fearful Dose Full in Their Faces-Fortunntely Missed Their Eyes-Duler Badly Burned in the Neck.

Police Sergt. John C. Daily lies on a cot at the Emergency Hospital nursing sundry wounds, while Policeman Greer is tucked in bed at home engaged in the same pleasing occupation. Neither officer is badly hurt but what Meither officer is badly hurt but what makes them more sore than the wounds is the way they received them. Police officers in Washington have been shot, cut, slugged, clubbed, sandbagged, kicked and maimed and wounded in other routine ways, but it remained for Greer and Daly to be laid out by a bath of concentrated lye. This is how it happened:

Sergt, Daly and a squad of officers from the Fourth precinct raided the speakensy conducted by Laura Buckner, colored, at No. 630 Delaware avenue southwest, yesterday afternoon.

terday afternoon. terday afternoon.

When the officers entered the house the fighting sergeant of the Fourth told the Buckner woman that she had been selling whisky in violation of the law and was under arrest. For reply he received a glassful of tye in the face, being given the glassful of lye in the face, being given the lie direct, so to speak. The woman had attempted to blind the officer and had her aim been better or Sergt. Daly less active she would undoubtedly have accomplished her purpose.

For some time past Sergt. Daly has had laformation that the Buckner woman was running an unilicensed bor at her house. He waited until his evidence was complete and he was certain of sufficient witnesses to secure a conviction. The time set for the raid came yesterday and the sergeant, accompanied by Policemen Greer, Robertson, Bauer, Mueller and Neale, went to the house shortly after 2 o'clock. Sergt. Daly sent Officers Bauer, Mueller and Neale to the rear door with instructions to affect an entrance and arrest everyone found on the premises.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT. The serg ant himself, with Officers freer and Robertson, went to the front door. The entire party was in citizen's dress. Sergt. Daly pushed open the door and stepped quickly inside, followed by Robertson. Greer saw an open window looking out on the pavement, and placing his hands on the window sill, vaulted into the room. The Buckey.

his hands on the window sil, vaulted into the room. The Buckner woman was just in the act of serving a party of colored men who stood in one corner near the rear door. She had evidently been taken completely by surprise, and her first intimation that anything was wrong was Policeman Greer's sudden appearance through the window anything was wrong was Policeman Greer's sudden appearance through the window. She turned on him with a whisky glass in one hand and a bottle in the other, but before she could speak Serg. Daly stepped forward and said, "We are officers and you are under arrest."

The woman did not reply, but half turned toward the kitchen. The men in the room, however, made a break for the door, and the officers had their attention diverted.

the officers had their attention diverted from the woman for a moment. Quick as a flash she darted toward the kitchen, and running to the cuptoard snatched a glass from the shelf and returned to the front

DASHED IT IN HIS FACE. Walking up to Sergt. Daly she dashed the contents into his face. The glass contained a mixture of lye and hot water, and had evidently been prepared for just such an emerg acy. The burning stuff, hot, as fire, spattered over the officer's face and neck, searing the skin and nearly blinding him. blinding him.
Greet and Robertson had followed the off the back fence as they were attempting to escape. They returned to the room to find their serg-ant staggering about the floor with his hands to his face. He cried to them that he could not see, and told them to seize the woman. Greer turned to obey the command and was met by another glassful of the borning liquid which struck him in the mouth and lower part of the face, burning him badly. The lye, however, did not reach his eyes and he pluckily grabbed the woman before she could do further damage and threw her across the bed, holding her down until his comrades came to his assistance. Meantime, Sergt, Daly, although suffering acute paip, continued to direct acute pain, continued to direct the move ments of his men.

The Buckner woman was sent to the station and her house searched for hidden liquors. A large busketful of stuff in bottles was found and the house was closed and the windows burred, the sergeant locking the front door blimself. A physician who happened to be passing took the injured men to a drug store, where their ments of his men.

Emergency Hespital and a more thorough examination made.

It was found that the contents of the glass had struck both men squarely on the chin, spattering over their faces. By a mirroulous chance their eyes escaped. A large lump of lye had become wedged between Sergt. Daily's collar and his neck and had burned a great hole in the flesh. His lips were fairly particiled and the upper part of his face was blistered and seared.

Policeman Greer received the scalding dose on his mouth and chin. His tongue and dose on his mouth and chin. His tongue and lips were blackened and burned in a frightful manner, and the lower part of his face was a mass of blisters. The clothing of both men was covered with iye and wherever a drop fell it cut through the heavy cloth like a knife. Sergt. Daly's coat carecially was hardly more than a burdle. especially, was hardly more than a bundle of rags, and every cut was as clean as though made with a knife. It was stated last night that both men were doing as well as could be expected, but it will be many days before they can return to duty.
